Each year, Adobe introduces a new version of Photoshop Elements. It is free and available for PC and Mac, but there are features that cost extra. The free versions of Photoshop Elements are good enough for most people, but if you are using Photoshop professionally you may want to opt for the paid version. Photoshop Elements is not as powerful as Photoshop. It does not contain the extensive feature set available in Photoshop. For example, you won't find tools like Paths, Healing brush, Liquify Filter, or Adjustment layers. You can adjust the opacity of images, crop images, format files, or perform other basic edits. All free versions of Photoshop Elements come with photo retouching tools. You can rotate, resize, and skew (shift) images. You can also create selections and use a warp effect to blur one part of an image and not the other. You can also remove wrinkles from your photo. You can also use basic filters. You can sharpen, soften, desaturate, or blur images. If your images are in the RAW format, you can use the RAW filter. Photoshop Elements Basic - Free Version Photoshop Elements is a quick way to edit your digital photos. It offers a simple user interface that allows you to quickly make and add text to images and the ability to paste text into multiple places on an image. It also has a basic image retouching toolset. SpaceX founder Elon Musk said Monday that the next step in the company's efforts to expand human space travel is to create a way to get that process to a level of safety and reliability that will allow people to live and work in space. "We are in the early days of the colonisation of space. The first successful manned mission is going to require some tremendous breakthroughs," he said on stage at the South by Southwest (SXSW) festival in Austin, Texas. "We have to prove that humanity is able to live in space long-term and that it's worth it." Now Playing: According to SpaceX, the first successful manned mission will require a new "economic model for long-duration crewed space flight." That means making a spaceship that can stay docked to a space station for weeks or months at a time, where astronauts will be performing scientific research or conducting experiments. "Eventually we want to get the possibility of people working in space, living in space," Musk said. "Even if we're still going to the moon or Mars, at least we're living somewhere." Cameron Padgett/CNET Musk's comments came during his keynote speech, which at times resembled a mission briefing. He also did a series of demos, often on large video screens. He showed off two vehicles: One is designed to be a reusable spaceship for manned missions to space, which he calls the "Starship". The other is a high-powered rocket known as the "Big Falcon Rocket," or BFR, that will one day be able to launch hundreds of people to space. First flight scheduled for 2020 The BFR rockets, which will be capable of carrying payloads up to 100,000 pounds, are designed to take off and land vertically, and be reused multiple times. Like the Dragon capsule, it will also be reusable. Big Falcon Rocket in flight. SpaceX Musk promised it would be the most fuel-efficient rocket ever, and is a key part of an effort to reduce the cost of spaceflight. For example, he's planning to reuse the BFR's first stage, which will use Raptor engine, the same technology that powers the Space X rocket the Falcon 9. Later this year, SpaceX plans to launch its first unmanned mission to space. It will be the most powerful rocket ever built, and will carry more than 62 million pounds of cargo and satellites into orbit.

Q: Change global variable with button I am trying to a different image every time I click on the button and I am trying to do this using a global variable, I currently have the following code. I am creating a new variable named userIcon to do this which is in MainActivity.java. It is being declared in the onCreate() method. `userIcon = this.findViewById().getDrawable();`
`userIcon.setColorFilter(this.getResources().getColor(R.color.blue), PorterDuff.Mode.MULTIPLY);` I then create a function that gets the user Icon. `private void changePicture() {`
`userIcon.setColorFilter(this.getResources().getColor(R.color.green), PorterDuff.Mode.MULTIPLY);` I have a click listener that then updates the variable. `button.setOnClickListener(new`
`View.OnClickListener() { public void onClick(View view) {`
`userIcon.setColorFilter(this.getResources().getColor(R.color.green), PorterDuff.Mode.MULTIPLY); } });`
But when I am testing it, it changes the color of the image but doesn't replace the image. Any advice on how to do this? I am running this in Android Studio 1.3.2 A: @user2407058, you could always use an ImageView's `setImageResource()` function to replace the image. If you want it to be more generic, I'd suggest the use of a public variable that's always changed. `public int picture;` then, on click, update the value like this `picture = new Random().nextInt(100);`
`imageView.setImageResource(picture);` New Delhi: Sajjan Jindal Group on Thursday said the group received Foreign Investment Promotion Board (FIPB) approval for its offtake pipeline in Arunachal Pradesh by refunding Rs 1,082 crore. In a statement, the group said
